Rockhound Fair over but not forgotten

WILBERFORCE — Peter Jolly, Australian by birth, now living at Casselman, Ontario, is one of the top opal dealers in the world. In his hand he holds an opal which he has polished. In the dish below is the opal in its natural state, after beng cut from a South Australia Mine. (Right Joyce Durant is one of the eight people from the Gemini Gem and Mineral Club of Burlington, who attended the Wilberforce fair. She is demonstrating the facting of quartz, and holds in her left hand a piece of quartz she is working on, stuck by dop wax onto the end of a dop stick.

WILBERFORCE — It's a lot of work, admitted co-ordinator Ken Binskin, "but rewarding when it goes off." The third annual Wilberforce Rockhound Fair certainly did "go off" with larger crowds than last year, and good displays in all sections of the Monmouth arena.

The "ice surface" area of the arena was ringed with booths of professional and semi-professional dealers and many people viewed the gems and rock collections. On centre ice stood a double row of tables for rock swappers. These were the amateurs of the show who exchange specimens with other enthusiasts.

"This is our first year," commented Bill Christianson of Barrie, Ont., but, we'll be back. This fair is probably the show of the future in this area.

Special guest of the Fair was Dr. D. H. 'Digger' Gorman, a professor at the University of Toronto. He lectured on Saturday afternoon and on Sunday, he was available to identify speciments brought to him by visitors at the fair.

READS YOUR STARS

If you were born this week: Home and family ties are of prime importance. You are emotional and are sympathetic to needs of others. You tend to soak up the emotional climate around you, so a healthy, happy one is vital. You like to entertain and may be fond of practical jokes.

ARIES (3-21/4-19): Home is more than a place to hang your hat, Aries, my pet. When the creative urge hits this week, let it stir you to make your own nest more comfy. Who knows, you might even spend more time in it. Well, just a little!

TAURUS (4-20/5-20): You're not crazy about change, Taurus. You prefer to preserve the status quo. And this tends to make you rather possessive. This week highlights a relationship and a form of apron strings may play a part in it, sweetheart.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20): Expect a very interesting call this week, Gem, in which money, jewelry, or a form of ego-flattery is involved. Then, it's time to tidy your teepee; like Aries, you tend to be a gadabout. Don't let the home fires go out, babe.

MOONCHILD (6-21/7-22): You have definite packrat tendencies, Moonbeam. Go through your vast inventory in both physical and mental departments. Buff, pat and polish your treasures, but pitch out those white elephants. Then, celebrate, darlin'!

LEO (7-23/8-22): Personal affairs are accented this week, Leo. Since you may not want to branch out onto new paths right now, solidify the ones you're on. Tend to budget and business matters and call someone you haven't seen for a while.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22): Try to maintain a slow, steady pace this week, Virgo. Now is not the time for speedy sprints. Clear obstacles from your path instead of leaping over them — no fair side-stepping 'em either! Week ends with a smile.

LIBRA (9-23/10-23): Friends and group activities get your week off to flying start, Libby. Look for news from a feminine source. Later, don't tell tales out of school. Finally, you're the star attraction; be ready to boogie overtime.

SCORPIO (10-24/11-22): This week's scenario should look familiar, Scorp — you've played it before. You won't get anything new or stupendous from doing a retake, babe, so split. Later, visit with a good friend and close week quietly.

SAGITTARIUS (11-23/12-21): Don't volunteer for anything, Saj. Once you start saying 'yes', you'll attract a 'can-you?' line a mile long. And you know that you have enough to do along your own lines as it is. Party time is a happy break.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19): Dust off your mortarboard and tassle, Cappy; research and study are indicated, and you may think you're back in school. New data (and a smidgeon of old) help you to handle a certain person before week is out.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-19): Associate's words may be just the spark you're looking for, Aquari, so keep your ears perked. Later, you can never please everybody, no matter what you do; don't get into contortions trying, angel. Days end with a lark.

PISCES (2-20/3-20): "Duty calls, Pisces, and its voice is loud and likely to be nagging. Better answer on the double. Later, a meeting is arranged, someone talks turkey, and a new proposition is offered. In other words, a busy, busy week!

Letters to the Editor

The Highlands Express, RR 2, Minden

Dear Sir:

In his column "Stanhope Notes" of July 16, 1980, Alex Stevenson comments on a rumoured remark to the Boshkung Lake Cottagers Association meeting on June 28, 1980 to the effect that the Stanhope Volunteer Fire Brigade might respond to a fire call with as few as three men.

I wish to categorically deny that Councillor Elvin Johnston made such a statement at our meeting.

A member asked the direct question "Do we really have a fire brigade in Stanhope Township? As chairman I asked Councillor Johnston to reply. The minutes of the meeting record his response: he stated that Stanhope did have an adequate fire brigade and that at least three of its members had taken their training along with him on the original brigade.

We appreciate Reeve Harrison's concern with this rumour and accept his assurance that at least 6 men are always available.

Yours truly,

Andrew A. Murdison, President
Boshkung Lake Cottagers' Association

Cardiff Township has special guest from Cardiff, Wales

CARDIFF — The Township here had a special guest last weekend in the person of Lord Parry, Chairman of the Wales Tourist Board who resides in Cardiff, which is the capital city of Wales.

Lord Parry was a guest at the summer cottage "Cartref" of Mrs. Daisy Heaton, of Toronto, which overlooks Paudash Lake.

Representatives of township council, deputy-reeve Mac Peters and bylaw officer Ron Mumford extended greetings to Lord Parry on behalf of the Reeve and council.

How Lord Parry and Mrs. Heaton became good friends has an interesting background. Her father was the Reverend Daniel Hughes who was a Baptist minister in Wales and Detroit and was also a poet, a scholar and was well gifted in hymn writing. His talents embarked him on a political career, one of the earlier politicians in Wales and one of the founders of the labour party. Lord Parry recalled the Reverend even at 96 years of age, came on to his platform and gave a most powerful speech.

But it was not until about 20 years ago, at the National Eisteddfod Festival of Wales in Cardiff that Lord Parry was introduced to Daisy Heaton and to his surprise, discovered she was Daniel Hughes' daughter.

The Cardiff Township property was purchased by Mr. Hughes in 1955 for his daughter Daisy who emigrated to Canada some 40 years ago.

Interesting enough too, is the family was not aware that the land they purchased was in Cardiff Township until they searched the deed and title.

Lord Parry contested parliamentary elections in constituencies named Pembrooke and Monmouth, names familier in this area. Four townships in a row Cardiff, Glamorgan, Monmouth and Snowdon all are associated with Welch descent which he hopes to write about. As a professional journalist, he writes a column "In My View" for the Western Mail in Wales.

After the weekend, Lord Parry was off to Niagara Falls, with the right honourable Nicholas Edward, MP, secretary of State for Wales and a prominent member of Mrs. Thatcher's government to unveil a plaque to commemorate a Mr. Matthews who founded one of the earliest settlements known as Upper Canada.

Experience '80 Program

The Ministry of Natural Resources at Minden is wrapping up another successful summer student program in cooperation with four local municipalities. Anson, Hindon and Minden, Dysart et al, Lutterworth and Stanhope have employed a total of 16 "Experience" 80 students to develop or improve municipal lands providing public access to waters in the area. A brochure showing these areas will soon be available at each municipal office.

In addition, the Ministry employed 17 students on a variety of other projects. Five helped to maintain and improve several public access points on Crown lands, two carried out various office duties including producing maps and compiling lake survey data for fisheries management. Forest improvement operations such as pruning and tending were carried out by eight students in the Victoria County Agreement Forest, while two others worked for Field Services, one in Haliburton as a receptionist and one in Minden doing various office duties.

While the students will be taking with them valuable experience, as well as summer wages to help with next year's education, they will also be leaving behind commendable contributions in our programs to benefit us all.

Hustlers advance to finals, oust Lindsay New Royal Hotel

LINDSAY — The Rockcliffe Hotel Hustlers from Minden travelled here Sunday evening to play the New Royal Hotel in the second game of the Tri Cty. fastball league semi-finals. The Hustlers came out with a bang, scoring six times in the first two innings and then coasted to an easy 8-3 victory and a two game sweep of the semi-finals. s.

Bob Johnston set the tempo of the game in the top of the first when he cracked a lead-off homer. Bernie Nichols doubled following the homer and scored on a triple by Jack Snell who was brought home when Barry Shaw singled and Rick Boucher, who went four-for-four, drove home Shaw with a double to make it 4-0.

Johnston then led off the top of the second inning with a double and scored on a single by Nicholls. Craig Stamp was then hit by a pitch and both players advanced on some sloppy throwing by the New Royal Hotel, one throw allowed Nicholls to stel home for the sixth run.

Lindsay tried to make a comeback but it was too lae and Minden added two more rums, one in each of the final two innings to make the final count 8-3.

Stamp picked up the win for the Hustlers giving up three runs on four hits, walked two and fanned eight. Dale Stinson took his second straight loss in four nights to the local team, giving up eight runs on 19 hits, walked two and struck out ten.

Hustlers double score on New Royal Hotel, win 4-2 in opener

MINDEN — The Tri County fastball league semi-finals got underway this week here, with the local Hustlers meeting the dangerous Lindsay New Royal Hotel team in the A series. The other series has the Lindsay Bilinlgs Mercury Jrs. tangling with the Wood ville Merchants.

Things were very tight last Wednesday evening with both teams playing cautiously. However, Lindsay broke the scoreless ball game in the third when Dale Stinson led off with a single and scored on a double by Lytle. The visitors went ahead 2-0 in the top of the fifth when Dainard singled, stole second and scored on a single by Lytle.

That was all for Lindsay, as the Hustlers got one back n the fifth and added three more in the sixth to win 4-2.

In the fifth Barry Shaw doubled, took third on a sacrifice bunt by brother Brian and scored on a single by Dwight Sisson.

The sixth was started by Nicholls who drew a base on balls, Craig Stamp doubled him home but was thrown out trying to stretch a double into a triple. Boucher flyed to centre for the second out. Jack Snell then smashed a triple to the fence and scored the winning run on a single by Barry Shaw. Brian Shaw then lashed another triple to the fence to score Barry for the insurance run.

Snell, now 11-0 on the year, was the winning hurler, giving up two runs on nine hits and fanned two. Dale Stinson suffered the loss, yielding four runs on nine hits, walked one and struck out three.

Coby OPP lob ball winners

Four local men's lob ball teams were competing and they were: Bells Ringers, Stealers, Crunchers and the OPP, who emerged the champions with Bells Ringers, the consolation winners.

Proceeds of the events were donated to the Coboconk and District Minor ball Association.

BY JOHN DALTON

How do you concentrate on catching fish — without all the fuss of maintaining your tackle? The answer is: "You don't."

Still, it doesn't take much to keep your gear in shape.

Proper attention to a few details can mean more time on the water than at the repair shop, warn the outdoors experts at Du Pont. The company, which invented nylon, is the maker of "Stren" fishing line.

Of course, keeping a tackle box in shape is the first prerequisite of a successful season. And proper outfitting depends on what species of fish you're going after and how often you plan to fish.

One general tip: Keep your tackle box free of outside odors. The scent of oil, glue, insect repellent, or suntan lotion, for example, can "taint" lures and other in-water tackle. That can drive off a fish.

Other tackle-box maintenance calls for discarding worn or rusted hooks; retouching favorite lures (with enamels); sharpening hooks; and polishing spinners and spoons.

Modern fiberglass and graphite rods are virtually maintenance free.

For rods, upright storage is preferred. They should be kept out of strong sunlight. When you store your rods for long periods, the tips, guides and ferrules should be lightly coated with oil. Don't forget to check worn guides regularly for metal burrs, which could snag and wear your line.

Modern reels require little maintenance. It's important, however, to follow the manufacturers' tips on care in order to facilitate easy use.

If you fish in salt water, wash your reel with fresh water after every outing. A build-up of salt on reel parts and gears can cause corrosion that leads to permanent damage.

Fresh water fishermen should clean and oil their reels about twice per season, assuming moderate-to-heavy use.

Although line is the least expensive part of your outfit, in many ways it's the most vital — especially once you've hooked a fish.

Caring for line is often the most neglected part of tackle maintenance.

The new, tougher nylon monofilaments are built to last. But they can be weakened by sunlight and repeated use. Eventually, they become oxidized and brittle. Du Pont experts recommend changing fishing line at least once a year.

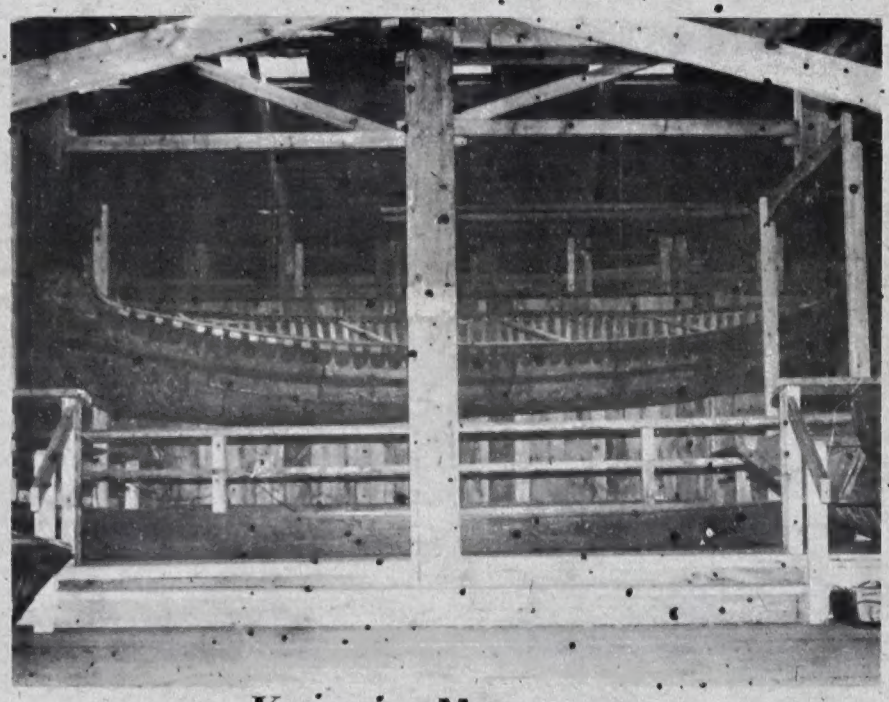
During the season, the first several yards of fishing line usually get most of the wear and tear. Naturally. It's in the water the most often.

Test your line by stripping off a few yards and giving it a steady pull. If it breaks easily, strip off more and try again. When it gets hard to snap, tie a simple overhand knot and pull again. Do this until the knotted line becomes hard to break. You should still have a serviceable portion.

(Two cautions: wear gloves to avoid cutting your hands, and make allowances for lighter weight lines which break more easily under light loads.)

Remember, tiny nicks and scrapes along the line can lead to loss of your catch any time you get a tough, gyrating critter on the line.

Nobody wants another hard-luck tale about the one that got away.



Kanawa Museums

DORSET — Nothing to do on a Sunday afternoon? Why not head up Highway 35 toward Dorset and stop in at Camp Kandalore. It is the home of the famous Kanawa Museum. This museum is perhaps the largest canoe and kayak museum in the world today and features more than 450 varieties. Everything from the 60 foot indian war canoe to the one-man kayaks are on display and tours are offered daily.

There's good news in Washington — they're hiring like mad to staff a bureau for economy in government.

BEYOND THE 65TH PARALLEL

There is nothing Elizabeth McMurtry likes better than a challenge.

At 40 she learned to drive a car. Last June at the age of 67 she was awarded a general Bachelor of Arts degree with a major in history at York University's Atkinson College.

So what does the petite and charming mother of Attorney-General Roy McMurtry do for an encore?

Well, if you happen to be the mother of four sons — two lawyers, a surgeon and a doctor of philosophy — you simply "take a day at a time" and leave yourself open to life's cornucopia of surprises.

"I had no intention of getting a degree when I decided to take a university course in Canadian history 15 years ago," confessed Mrs. McMurtry of Toronto.

"Besides, I don't feel comfortable with all this fuss being made over me," she added. "There is nothing unusual about me getting a BA other than I am a senior citizen."

Mrs. McMurtry showed exceptional scholastic ability from the age of 15 when she graduated from Grade 13 winning a Governor-General's Medal for English.

Two things triggered Mrs. McMurtry's pursuit of a college education.

First, she wanted to study Canadian history so that she might one day fulfill a dream of writing history books for children.

"There is still a great need for such books in the classrooms," noted Mrs. McMurtry who stresses that children will absorb and retain more if a subject is interesting.

Second, it was a simple case of "intellectual curiosity. The mind is like a muscle. If you don't use it, it atrophies."

The McMurtry 'boys' are very proud of their mother. Mrs. McMurtry, too, swells with pride when she talks about her sons — how well they've done for themselves, and the fact that they had to help finance their way through college.

Mrs. McMurtry's 67 years have been filled with much joy — and with some sorrow. Her husband, a distinguished trial lawyer, suffered a stroke at the age of 53 when she was only 40.

For 10 years until he died, Mrs. McMurtry dedicated her life to nursing her husband who was partially paralysed. She encouraged him to write a book of advice for young lawyers. After two years of joint effort, the result was a book entitled, Days in Court, which is available in the public library system.

When her husband died in 1964 there was a feeling of emptiness in her heart. But Mrs. McMurtry was determined to keep busy and get on with living.

A strong family unit prevails and she spends as much time as possible with her 16 grandchildren including babysitting the youngest offspring, one-year-old Meghan.

Mrs. McMurtry is active in volunteer work at the White Cross Guild at Clarke Institute of Psychiatry, and at a public school where she teaches Canadian history every Wednesday.

Holland cheese and ham puffs

These light savory puffs are sure to win compliments when served as a special luncheon dish. Easy to prepare in advance, they can also be made as bite-sized party treats for home entertaining.

1 cup	water	250 mL
1/3 cup	butter	75 mL
½ tsp.	salt,	2 mL
1 cup (250 mL)	all-purpose flour
5	eggs
1½ cups (375 mL)	shredded imported Holland Gouda or Edam cheese
1 cup (250 mL)	finely chopped cooked ham
¼ tsp.	dry mustard	1 mL

Measure water, butter and salt into a saucepan. Bring to a boil. Add the flour all at once; stir vigorously until batter leaves the sides of the pan and a ball of paste forms. Remove from heat. Allow to cool about one minute. Add eggs, one at a time, beating vigorously after each addition until dough is smooth. Stir in shredded Holland cheese, chopped ham and dry mustard.

To oven bake: Place heaping tablespoonful (15 mL) mounds of mixture four inches (8 cm) apart on lightly greased baking sheet. Bake at 400°F (200°C) for 25 to 30 minutes, until puffs are firm and golden brown.

To deep fry: Pour cooking oil into deep fryer or deep frying pan to a depth of 2 inches (4 cm). Heat to 375-400°F (190-200°C). Drop tablespoonfuls (15 mL) of mixture into hot oil. Fry puffs, 8 to 10 at a time (turning each once or twice) until puffs are golden on all sides. Remove with slotted spoon; drain on paper towels. Serve immediately. Note: Puffs can be kept warm in the oven at a low temperature. Makes 2 to 3 dozen medium-sized puffs.

For appetizer puffs: Drop teaspoonfuls (5 mL) of mixture onto lightly greased baking sheet and bake at 400°F (200°C) for 15 to 20 minutes or by deep fry method until golden brown. Makes 4 to 5 dozen appetizers.

Note: Both deep fried and baked puffs may be made in advance and frozen for later use. Simply reheat in oven at 350°F (175°C) for approximately 5 minutes before serving.

For a free recipe booklet, write to: Holland Cheese Exporters Association, P.O. Box 163, Toronto-Dominion Centre, Toronto, Ontario M5K 1H6.

Ask Alma

Dear Alma:
I had a lovely party for our anniversary. During the cocktail hour, one of my girlfriends went to the bathroom and smoked marijuana. She said it makes her loose and sociable and she does it to take away her nervousnes. I guess her use of the drug is her affair but I don't want it in my house again. How can I tell her? — R.G.

Dear R.G.
Tell her exactly the way you told me. She can loosen up in the car before she comes in if her "high" is worth the risk.

Dear Alma:
I can't get into at the library on this. Can you tell me if the Mexican actor, Cantinflas, is still alive and if there ever was a biography written about him? Thanks. —Sharon Gilman, Springfield, Mo.

Dear Sharon:
The "Mime of Mexico," who endeared himself to American film audiences as Phineas Phogg's valet in the 1956 version of "Around The World In 80 Days," is very much alive. Cantinflas, born Mario Morena in 1911, is still under exclusive contract to Columbia Pictures and portrays his lovable tramp character in movies distributed outside the United States.

There is no biography of the actor available in English. His last known address, published eight years ago, is: Avenue Insurgentes, Sur No. 377, Mexico D. F. Mexico. I suggest you write "Please Forwrd" on the envelope, or write to him c/o Columbia Pictures.

Dear Alma:
I am eleven years old and all my friends are maturing faster than I am. When I'm with them I feel odd and I feel there is something wrong with me. What should I do? — Flat As A Pancake

Dear Pancake:
There's really nothing you can do except wait. It is normal for girls to mature anytime between 10 and 16 years. Everyone develops at her own rate and you are not odd at all. Be patient. Even a pancake rises when it's done cooking.

Right time to explore Ontario's northland

THUNDER BAY, Ont. – This city, in its dramatic setting on the northwest shore of Lake Superior, is aptly named.

But, as it was with the two names it replaced – Fort William and Port Arthur – twin cities which were amalgamated in 1970, it more often still gets called "The Lakehead," a throw-back to early sailing days.

At the northern extremity of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes Seaway, in Thunder Bay's busy harbor, you'll see cargo ships of global registry which come for iron ore and wood products but, more importantly, for Canadian grain dispensed from 15 skyscraper elevators with a capacity for 2.2 million tons.

Grain handlers unload some 1,500 railway cars a day in season from the port's 230 miles of marshalling yards. And, over the past five years, 2.5 billion bushels of grain have been handled through these terminals.

Your interest might be rewarded by elevator tours offered by two of the companies – the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool and the United Grain Growers Ltd. The tour costs just a dollar, but no one under 12 is admitted.

For a ship's eye view of this busiest freshwater port in North America, various cruises are available from the city's Waterfront Park. The "Mary Ethel" offers two daily cruises; $3 for adults, $1.50 for kids under 14 and under-fivers free.

The "Welcome" runs three daily harbor cruises; $5 for adults, $3 for under 14's and under-fivers free. But the "Welcome" also operates a morning cruise ($1 extra only for adults) to one of the world's renowned visitor attractions – Old Fort William.

The Fort, with its palisades and lookout tower, is a $12 million living reconstruction of the North West Company's fur trading hub in the lusty days of the voyageur in the early 1800s.

The Fort was re-established on 10 acres along the original voyageur route of the Kaministikwia River, amid forested surroundings in keeping with those times.

You are introduced to this historic fort with an audio-visual briefing. Then you're ready for a tour of the grounds.

The Fort is one of the most imaginative restorations you'll see anywhere, its 50 structures having been masterfully recreated from paintings, sketches, and documents of the period.

But, as great as the buildings may be, the real show stealers are the summer students and regulars who staff them. In authentic costumes of the 19th century they quickly make visitors feel like they too are part of the act.

You can witness a heated debate of the company's policies going on in the Council House; sample fur trade cuisine, such as fresh baked bread, scones, thick pea soup, beef stew and apple cider in the Canteen, or watch a kicking, screaming law-breaker being herded off to jail.

You also can see how big cargo canoes are built, wander into the artisans' shops, the naval shed, the stores, the native and voyageur encampments, or just settle for patting a farm animal in the agricultural complex outside the main palisade.

Whatever you see here sparks a love affair with history and a fond admiration for those tough voyageurs with the canoes, as bad and brawling as they were.

Since it is only 8 km (5 miles) from downtown, you may wish to return to the site by car for a second look.

Admission is just $2 for adults, $1 for students and 50 cents for youngsters 6 to 12 with a family rate of $5, and the ample parking is free.

But Thunder Bay isn't they only attraction in the area. Ouimet Canyon lies just 41 miles east, off the Trans Canada Highway (17). This awesome piece of primeval splendor, two miles long, 500 feet across and 400 feet deep, is big enough for an airplane to fly through, and a few years ago one did just that.

If you're not sure whether you work under a cost-accounting system, you're not married.
